Board of Trustees Report Recent Decisions

The Southern Missionary College Board of Trustees met recently and made a number of decisions affecting SMC.

Plans for a new building facilitating the baccalaureate and associate of science nursing departments were approved. The proposed structure will contain approximately 10,000 square feet at an estimated cost of $200,000. Supplying half the total cost, a private donation has initiated the funding with $100,000.

Permission was granted for Robert McCurdy to attend the "Approach to Life Sciences" institute to be held at Utah State University, Logan, Utah, June 18 to August 10. Mr. McCurdy was also promoted from assistant professor to associate professor of computer science.

James Hannum was advanced in rank from assistant professor to associate professor of communications.

Seven faculty members were granted summer leaves, Mrs. Genevieve McCormick, associate professor of speech, will spend the summer at Newbold College, Bracknell, Berkshire, England. Mrs. Minon Hamm, assistant professor of English, plans on studying the Italian language and fine arts in Florence, Italy. Chaplain Desmond Cummings, Jr., will study toward a master of divinity degree at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan. Charles Davis, librarian and associate professor of library science, plans to visit several colleges and look into the various course offerings in the library science field. He also plans to be on our Orlando campus to check on the library services offered to our nursing students there. Mrs. Ellen Gilbert, instructor in the associate of science degree nursing program, will be working on a master of science degree in nursing education at Arkansas State College at Conway, Arkansas. Mrs. Christine Shultz, associate professor of nursing, will be evaluating nursing programs at various schools for new nursing concepts. Mr. Stanley Walker, professor of music, will spend the summer traveling and studying in Europe.

A number of leaves were approved for doctoral work. William Garber, instructor in journalism, will be attending Ohio University where he will be working on a Ph.D. in mass communications. Jerry Gladson, instructor in religion, is going to Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, where he will work on a doctorate in Old Testament. Don Runyan, assistant professor of music, will be in attendance at George Peabody School of Music, also in Nashville, working on a doctorate in music education. Ronald Springett, assistant professor of religion, is going to Manchester, England, to work on a doctorate in theology.

Kenneth Spears, dean of student affairs, will attend Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro where he is finishing a master's degree in business administration.

Presented by the Laymen's League Foundation, a proposal allowing a student to spend a semester at a self-supporting school on a practicum basis, was discussed. A student could thus receive college credit while involved in practical experience.

The employment of a development director has been authorized. Tasks involved include raising operating funds and capital improvements for SMC.

Four people were formally employed in addition to teachers who received appointments at prior board meetings: Mrs. Janet Meyers, associate professor of nursing; Tom Grindley, instructor in industrial arts; Mrs. Barbara Straight, instructor in nursing; and Mrs. Elvie Swinson, associate professor of nursing.

The request of Dr. John Eaton, optometrist, to add an extension to the Collegedale Clinic, was approved. This will provide Dr. Eaton with additional space, and the extension will also allow for future expansion of the clinic complex.

Nondiscriminatory Racial Policy Reaffirmed

Southern Missionary College recently reaffirmed its nondiscriminatory racial policy by reannouncing that all qualified applicants, regardless of race, color, or national origin, are being accepted at SMC.

SMC has never had a discriminatory policy in its admissions, but it did vote in February, 1965, that it would henceforth, in practice, accept all students who were qualified by other admission standards.

The college reaffirms its position in order to let its constituents fully understand the policy of the college.

There are several black members on the Board of Trustees, and quite a few black students are currently enrolled.

The admissions policy set up in 1965 brought Southern Missionary College's admission practices into uniformity with all its sister institutions around the world.

The Seventh-day Adventist Church, with approximately three-fourths of its membership outside the United States, operates educational systems in all areas of the world. These systems are cosmopolitan and international, serving all qualified students.

Students will be able to work and pay tuition costs for their education.

A new means of communication will come in the form of a short wave radio set given in part by the Young Married Students' Sabbath School and the Messengers, a singing group sponsored by Mr. Ausser and composed of nine students.

The Messengers have visited various churches, giving programs of inspirational music and discussions about the mission in Francia Sirpi. At the end of each program an offering was taken which has accumulated to $4500. Part of this money is going to the mission school to sponsor five students who cannot pay the tuition, yet need and strongly desire a formal education. Already four of these five students have been baptized. The mission's emphasis is being placed on spiritual enlightenment, medical work, and agricultural improvement.

SMC's Campus Women's Club has raised $500 that will provide the mission with two gas operated refrigerators. They will be sent directly to the mission from Brazil where they can be purchased less expensively. A typewriter for the school is also being donated by the club.

A somewhat unusual situation has come about as a result of enthusiasm for the project. Two non-Adventist physicians, Dr. C. Kurth, and Dr. Spivey of the Lutheran denomination, were introduced to the mission program by Miss Christene Perkins, nursing instructor on the Orlando campus. Miss Perkins explained what the student missionaries are trying to accomplish. Dr. Kurth bought a plane ticket to Puerto Cabezas and traveled to Francia Sirpi where he could see the mission for himself. He was so impressed that when he returned, he encouraged Dr. Spivey to get involved. The two men took a trip to the mission in Dr. Spivey's private plane to look over the project and further evaluate the needs there.

From this starting point, the physicians initiated a new rotating program whereby each month one doctor flies to Puerto Cabezas and works at Francia Sirpi for one week. Dr. Kurth also raised $150 from a spaghetti supper for the mission.

Our own SMC nursing students on the Orlando campus raised $700 for the project.

Mr. Bob Warner, one of SMC's industrial arts teachers, and his students built a house near Collegedale as a class project. Upon completion, the house was sold immediately, and the profit of $5000 is being given to the mission.

In July, Mr. William Iles, president of the Committee of 100 for SMC, Inc., member of the Board of Trustees for SMC, and an Orlando businessman, will go to Francia Sirpi. He will take along 15 Forest Lake Academy students who will work on the building projects at the school for two weeks.

The major buildings to be completed are the clinic, the women's club building where women will be taught classes in sewing, cooking, and other domestic activities, and a church.

Essential to medical assistance is the 1970, nine-passenger Chevrolet Suburban Carry All donated by Mr. Ellsworth McKee, president of McKee Baking Company in Collegedale. This personally donated vehicle has four-wheel drive and will be used as an

Dr. and Mrs. Lynn H. Wood Donate Books to SMC Library

Dr. and Mrs. Lynn H. Wood

Dr. and Mrs. Lynn H. Wood of Loma Linda, California, recently presented SMC with 450 volumes of books from their personal library. Dr. Wood was intimately associated with the founding of Southern Missionary College as the present site was selected. He designed the original buildings and superintended their construction, serving as president through the years 1918-22.

The gift included a six volume set of Clark's Commentary from the family library of Uriah Smith, Volumes 1 and VI are signed with his address and indicate that they were purchased April 15, 1890. The set is leather bound and gives the appearance of being well used.

Mr. Davis, SMC's librarian, states that this type of gift is especially important because it adds to the heritage of the SDA library which has been established within the new McKee Library. These volumes of Uriah Smith's, along with the other rare and valuable books and materials related to the SDA church, will be kept in the vault located in the SDA library and will be available for use and viewing by special permission. Mr. Davis also states that it is the plan to make this SDA library a research and reference facility for general church subjects and especially for history of SDA work in the South. Anyone having material to add to this collection is urged to contact Mr. Davis at the library.

Also included in the gift from Dr. Wood are many valuable volumes dealing with the ancient history and archaeology of the Middle East. These are in the area of his special interest and most of them are now out of print and would now be unavailable on a regular purchase basis.

ambulance and mobile medical unit by the medical staff at the mission.

A gift of approximately $600 worth of food is being given by Collegedale Distributors and its manager, Mr. Don Glass. The Village Market and its manager, Mr. Cliff Myers, are also donating a substantial food contribution.

From all indications, the mission project is being even more enthusiastically supported this year. All the effort and sacrifices that so many have made for the project are establishing a mission to be proud of — a service to people who might otherwise remain oblivious to God's love.

Hefferlin Presents Paper at Geoscience Research Institute

Dr. Ray Hefferlin, chairman of the physics department at Southern Missionary College, attended the annual meeting of the Geoscience Research Institute at North Rim in Grand Canyon, Arizona, from May 23 through 25.

"Paleomagnetism" was the topic of Dr. Hefferlin's presentation to the institute members. The talk explained how magnetism in lava-formed rocks reveals the magnetic field in their area when the rocks are cooled. He also discussed the continental drift and stresses in the earth as continents were formed and how earth's magnetic field may have reversed itself in past years.

The group participated in active field work in northern Arizona and southern Utah on May 24.

Headquarters for the Geoscience Research Institute are located in Berrien Springs, Michigan. The Institute, sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, is active in research concerning the creation and flood theories and has taken expeditions to coral reefs, South American mountains, and other places of geological significance.

Purple Egg Arts and Crafts Fair Held

Approximately 28 young artists and craftsmen exhibited their works at the Purple Egg Arts and Crafts Fair, Sunday, April 22 from noon to 6:00 p.m. in the Student Park at Southern Missionary College.

According to Student Association President Tammy Trimble, the fair was open to students from any of the colleges in Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia.

The public was invited to attend the fair and to purchase some of the items on display.

This was the first Purple Egg Arts and Crafts Fair to be held, and it is hoped that it will become an annual event at Easter time for Southern Missionary College and all colleges in the Tri-State area, according to SMC President, Dr. Frank Knittel. He emphasized that SMC wants to develop student talent in these areas, promote it, and increase the cultural aspects of education in this area of the country.

Campus Kitchen Remodeled

The Campus Kitchen, C.K. for short, is currently being remodeled. An oven from the old cafeteria has been moved in so that pizzas can be available. The emphasis will be on short order foods as: sandwiches, salads, soup, French fries, milk, etc. No vegetables will be served. If one desires a full meal he should go to the cafeteria. The $40 a month minimum flat fee for food that each dormitory student must pay may be eaten at either the cafeteria or the Campus Kitchen or both places.

The cafeteria and C.K. are both under the management of Mr. Ronald Grange but the type of food will be different.

Some of the plans have not been finalized but it is rumored that maybe during Christmas vacation the dining room of the C.K. will be redecorated Western style.
